This week we take a look at the trends showing a resurgence of authoritarianism—wanting, promising, and being able to obtain power and control—in multiple parts of the world.

When we think about the kind of collaborative work we need to do together to meet the complex challenges for health and well-being that we began to identify in the previous seven Game Changers, it is an important time to consider if societal fragmentation will take a lot of the promising possibilities off the table (or at least slow them down). What could we be investing in to retain our power to nurture the best possibilities for health and well-being? Dive into this thought-provoking new Game Changer video and let us know what's on your mind.
